is simple and should be easily disposed of. How many cup defenders will be built over here if the terms are finally agreed to? Until they are under way, there is no means of even quessing. In former years there have been three or four syndicates, composed of men of wealth and spirit, who have wasted no time in getting right down to details. That the new yachts, if built, will not be radical departures, is to be taken for granted. Yachting architects have steadily followed each other, not along beaten paths, but in the footsteps of the careful and accurate acisotists who have evolved new principles cautiously and gradually. In this course there is attery—wide departure from it is dangerous. Pilgrim was an instance of the perit that lies in the path of a deviation from known principles and well-tried form.

A youth, who says he is "about" twenty years old, and who shrouds his identity behind the inlitials "R. G." writes to "The Evening World" that he seeks to ascend to fame by means of a descent. In other words, he proposes to jump from the big bridge into the cold, damp waters of the East liver. The letter is full to the brim with burning desire and yearning anxiety to tumbit off the span, but the young man shrinks at one obstacte only—he has no "backer."

Father Newey, however, was obliged to hurry back to the Cathedral in order to take part in the Cathedral services of the late Banker Eugene Kelly, so he did not see the secretary. The Bones Taken from the Coffins and Packed in Excessior.

It is said that They Cannot Rest Peacefully in Foreign Soil.

A Chinese resurrection is going on this morning, and the bodies of Celestials which have reposed in graves for many years are being taken up and shipped to China.

The resurrectionists are working in Jersey City. Their field of operations is in New York Bay Cemetery, in the Greenville section. In this home of the Greenville section. In this home of the Greenville section. In this home of the twen 1853 and 1888.

Yesterday about twenty coffins were taken up, and the remainder are being removed to-day.

It is an old story that a Chinaman's bones never rest easily except on China soil. Before the Chinese leave their cauntsy it is an understood thing that if they die in another clime, unless it is at an old story that a Chinaman's boursed there.

Forty zinc-lined boxes, about two and a haff feet long and a foot wide, were carted to the cemetery yesterday. In the northeastern section of the grounds, close by the tracks of the New Jersey Central Railroad's main line, a tent was erected and the boxes were piled around it. In the northeastern section of the grounds, close by the tracks of the New Jersey Central Railroad's main line, a tent was erected and the boxes were piled around it. With Chung Wale Kung Sam were two Chinese laborers and an interpreter. Cometery Superintendent Tilden provided & force of grave-dug gers to assist the seekers after bones. Grave after grave was opened by the cemetery men, but under no circumstances would the Chinese allow them to touch the coffins. All they required of the diggers was that they should dig down to the coffins. The Chinese laborers did the rest.

touch the coffins. All they required of the diggers was that they should dig down to the coffins. The Chinese laborers did the rest.

After the diggers would expose a coffin to view one of the Chinese laborers would, clamber down on top of the coffin and pry off the cover. A glance at the skeleton within sickened the ordinary spectator, but not so with the Chinese gnouls. The cover of the casket or coffin was toesed above, the plate removed and carefully laid on one cide. Next the man in the grave lifted out the bones, one by one, and threw them in a common bag. Not a particularly repulsive-looking fellow, carried the bag to the tent. Spreading out a piece of white mus in on the ground the bones of a dead Chinaman were laid out on it. Then with a piece of excelsior each bone, large and small, was carefully wiped and iaid on one side. The skull was handled with the utmost care, and every particle of dirt or other substance cleaned off. Even the small finger and toe joints were cleaned.

The cleaning over, the bones were carefully packed in excelsior in one of the small boxes. The plate removed from the old coffin was tacked on, and the remains—of another Chinaman were ready for shipment.

Before nigatall twenty boxes had been nacked and the work.

A reporter learned from one of the hinamen yesterday that a large number f caskets have already been shipped to hina, and he said that about three hunged in all will be sent. His resolution is the more regrettable, in that no musician's memoirs have ever been therein clearly reflecting the atmosphere in which the author lived. Rubinstein's death has had the effect of causing renewed attention to be paid to Russian music, which during his life was fostered to a greater extent than during a cen

Ing himself from a more curious inquiry behind his professional and official obligations.

The same may be said of other cases where public out unstated reasons are alleged as having delayed the trial of indictments.

In a few cases it is shown that post-penements of trials have been had at the request of coursel for the prisoners. Where these have been by the Court on motion, opposed by the District-Attortey, of course, that officer is not responsible. Where they bave been by consent the trisoner surely cannot be heard to allege that natural or constitutional rights has been violated, and such cases have rot been so frequent or flagrant as apparently to have prejudiced the public.

The Commissioner has found, at the request of the complainants, that "the Dictrist-Attorney at the time of the appointment of Francis L. Wellman, one of his assistants, agreed with the said Wellman to permit him to attend to his private practice; and said Wellman during the year 1894 was frequently absent from the District-Attorney's office in the discharge of his private business."

As no law was violated by this arrangement anything which sustains the charges.

It is provided by section 272 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, that:
"An indictment, when found by the Grand Jury, must be presented by their foreman in the presence of the Court, and must be filed with the clerk and remain in his office as a public record, but it must not be shown to any person other that a public officer until the defendant has been arrested or has appeared.

One of the charges against the District-Attorney is that he has been habitually remiss in the observance of this section.

I do not understand that it is claimed that either he or any person in his office has ever violated the prohibition therein contained, nor was any evidence offered to that effect, but the claim is made, that from the time of the finding of the indictment until its final dispositions by the courts its actual manual custody is habitually with the District-Attorney and not with the Clerk of the Court.
